Supervisors and employees are encouraged to discuss performance on a regular basis. Through the performance management process, supervisors communicate their expectations to employees, coach them on achieving objectives, diagnose relative strengths and weaknesses, and determine a development plan to improve skills and overall performance. During the process, employees communicate their observations about how well they're doing, the resources or assistance they may need from others, ideas on how to improve the job, and their needs for skill development. This form is meant to assist in that process. It is designed so that supervisors and employees may discuss and agree upon expectations and measurements during a planning discussion at the time of on boarding, followed by interim discussions and the final performance review.

Please evaluate the employee's performance during the review period based on the job description and the following competencies.
